be done in reference to repairing it. At Seal C-ve, the new brig Wm. Heath lying at anthor, was thought to be in great danger; an attempt was made to board her, but in hauling round a point, the load was strack by the gale, spect and bottom upwards criven to sea. The brig, however, outrode the storm, and the boat was overtaken just as it was driving upon the breakers at Tinker's Island and saved. The storm of Monday, though very severe, did but very little damage, so far as heard from Brig Ceylon, Capt. Coffin, from a New Rrunswick or Nova Scotia port, for New York, with potatoes, came to anchor at Long leland, Thursday afternoon. The next day, as the gale increased, to prevent going ashore, she cut away both masts. The captain will make sale of the cargo where it is.—Ellaworth Herald, Jan. 26.

Another Mail Robber Arrested in Connecting and the control of the New London, Williamshic & Falmer Railroad Company, was arrested for robbing the United States mails. James Holbrook Eag, the special agent of the Post Office Department, has been actively engaged, assisted by the Postmasters of Hartfori and Norwich, in the investigation of the cause of various losses which have occurred on this route, and on Saturday succeeded in detecting their author, and found a mail key on the person of the robber, also certain bank bills which were known to have been in the mail which left Hartford by the 12:40 P.M. train for Fravidence Great credit is due to Mr. Holbrook for his untiring vigilance—he has devoted himself to this matter for the week past, and the last day of the week crowned his effects with entire success. The robber was brought to Hartford by the evening train from Williamsatic, in cus tedy of Mr. Bacon, United States Marshal for this district, and committed to jail. The robber had used great caut on in purlaining the money but the agent was too cunning for him. Any one who expects to get a living by piffering from the mail bags, is advised to go to some part of the country where Holbrook cannot get on his track. — Hartford Courant, Jan. 19.
